SCHOOL BUSES KEEP ALABAMA STUDENTS SAFE

School buses are proven to be the safest mode of transportation for students. As a matter of fact, according to the American School Bus Council, students are about 70 times more likely to get to school safely if they take the school bus instead of traveling by car. School buses are built to very extreme specifications. However, the most important safety feature of any school bus, is the driver. School bus drivers must go through rigorous training and pass several tests before they obtain their school bus driver certification. They must also attend a 4-hour recertification class each year to keep their certification.

Alabama school buses travel over 480,000 miles and transport over 350,000 students each school day – which adds up to over 87 million miles and 63 million students annually. All of this is done while having very few serious accidents and injuries.

So, the next time you see a bus driver, be sure to acknowledge what a great job they do each day. They play a vital role in the safety of our students!
